

AGROECOLOGY HUB IN TANZANIA

Membership Application Form

Dear applicant,

Agroecology Hub in Tanzania (AEHT) established in 2019 seeks to (i) Conduct gender sensitive agroecological research through undergraduates' pilot studies, graduate students in association with senior researchers, Farmer Research Networks (FRNs) and other relevant stakeholders; (ii) Synthesize and disseminate findings and exchange ideas and experiences on agroecological research; and (iii) Conduct capacity building of undergraduates, postgraduates and Farmer Research Network (FRN) groups

We would like to invite you to become a member of the Hub. Membership is open to all individuals, groups and institutions interested in promoting agroecology in Tanzania through their participatory engagement.
